Reasons for comment:

Comments:	The A227 is an already very busy road linking the A2 to the M20. Furthermore it has one secondary school , nursery and one primary school all causing congestion at the beginning and end of the day, around the area that the building of 350 houses is proposed. The parade of shops already causes congestion, with inadequate parking opposite the proposed site. Another possible 700 cars issuing onto that road where there is already a right turn to Longfield and another to the parade of shops would make an already congested road into a dangerous one. The loss of agricultural land is regrettable while the lack of spaces at the schools and doctor's surgery and inadequate bus service all add to the site's unsuitability for development.
