Reasons for comment:
Comments:	Why build upon rich productive land. Surely there are other places where new homes would be welcomed and the land more suited to building. Is it the train line that attracts this proposal? Meopham will lose its village status for sure and turn into a town if all the new proposed developments go ahead. There would be a need for more trains (already overfull at peak times), more schools, GP surgeries, more frequent buses and a Sunday service, more and far better roads to carry the already overwhelming number of cars. The A227 will be turned into a rat run at busy times and traffic lights would be needed to allow movement out and about the area. "The Greater London Plan" in 1945 proposed to turn Meopham into a satellite town. Sanity prevailed and it was abandoned. Some words said at the time: "Let no one say it to your shame that all was beauty here until you came". Meopham has increased enormously since then and is still a pleasant village. No doubt we will continue to grow but let it be in a sensible way.

Kind regards
