Reasons for comment:

Comments:	Increased heavy traffic on already burdened country village road is an extreme concern. The bungalows opposite this proposed site is primarily for an aging population who have either moved to, or lived in the village for many years. Their quality of life would be severely affected by the vehicles, pick-ups, vans, small lorries and cars essentially needed by folk pursuing their recognised employment who would be living on the proposed site. Further to that, Pear Tree Lane is already recognised as being a 'problem' road, with mostly single lane access and areas with overhanging trees with roots exposed. An increase of traffic of any type would exacerbate the problems of residents who already experience the problems of speeding drivers and congestion, making it hazardous for other drivers and pedestrians in particular. Pear tree Lane is already used as a 'Rat Run' when the A2 becomes congested and it's not unusual for local residents to be held in a log-jam of traffic as they try and get out of their own homes. Any significant increase in traffic, as this proposal suggests, would further burden this village road to a detrimental effect.
