Comments:	I cannot see why we should spoil the beautiful solitude of the natural landscape with an ugly eye sore. Even if the building were more sympathetically designed, to turn this quiet and beautiful corner into a busy 'venue', with all the associated vehicle movements would be a travesty. Must we submit to the god of capitalism and consumerism ? What we have learned from the local fruit operation at Scripts and Silverhands is that precious few local jobs are created and workers are bussed in from agencies supplying workers from all over the world come harvest time. It is certainly not justified on these grounds. As for the processing of the grapes that surely can take place in an industrial unit nearby. I cannot see why we should sacrifice the location, the tranquility and the safety of walkers for next to no return.

Kind regards
