Reasons for comment:

Comments:	Having viewed the application, I fully support it. This is the next step in supporting local businesses and the local community. The original farmyard and supporting buildings have been redeveloped to accommodate a cafe, shops, and other attractions. The existing farmers need to be supported in their ongoing plans to slightly relocate their operations within the land they have farmed for generations. The impact is likely to be minimal to zero as the land use will not change, the buildings will require no additional road access, there will be no residential accommodation built or public access needed. The utilities would not need any upgrading. It would be highly unlikely to have any impact on the carbon footprint, or local environment, given the required surveying is conducted, aa the land use will not change. The application seem to ensure the land is used for acciculture rather than an other development or change of use. In summary I see no reason to refuse the application.
