Reasons for comment:

Comments:	I lived in Meopham for 10 years, and only rent increases made me need to move, and would still be living there now if I had not been priced out of the market. The majority of people that live here do so because of the village feel and that you have the amenities you need in keeping with the surroundings. I will admit that I do not have all the information, but are school places, doctors, dentists, post offices, banks, factored into the plans for more properties? Not to mention the vast amount of vehicles that will be thundering through the A227. The infrastructure in North Kent has not been able to cope for years, especially since Bluewater was built. The roads that go through Meopham & Cobham struggle when there are issues on the A2 and surrounding areas as it is, more properties equals more traffic, and more gridlocks! Why is Government intent on building on these villages and hamlets rather than utilise the decrepit and derelict buildings that are laying waste in our actual towns.
