Reasons for comment:

Comments:	I am not sure of the legalities that are involved in this case, but I am sure that Gipsy's can only occupy common land, without other restrictions laid upon that land. As a resident of Meopham for a number of years, I am very aware of the amount of land that is being illegally built on. Permanent changes made to woodland that is protected. Does this fall in to that category? We also have a large travellers site only miles down Wrotham Road. This planning for even more sites surrounding our small village and no doubt bringing a level of unwanted disruption to the village AND our protected woodland. We have already seen evidence that the woodland has already started to be cut down OR ripped up. The is obviously no respect for these trees.
