Reasons for comment:

Comments:	As a 21-year-old university student living directly opposite the proposed site, I fully support the construction of a new mosque in Gravesend. Having grown up in this diverse town, I believe this mosque would be a valuable addition not only for the local Muslim population but also for the wider community. It would serve as an inclusive space that embraces the rich cultural and sectarian diversity within the Muslim community itself, offering room for different traditions, schools of thought, and community events to coexist respectfully. For Muslims across Gravesend, having more accessible mosque locations around town would reduce overcrowding in existing spaces, ease travel burdens, and encourage more consistent community engagement and worship. Beyond its religious function, the mosque has the potential to foster intercultural understanding, promote social cohesion, and act as a centre for charitable and educational initiatives that benefit everyone, not just Muslims. From my perspective, its presence right across the street wouldn't be a disruption-it would be a sign of growth, representation, and unity in a town that already values multiculturalism.
