Reasons for comment:

Comments:	We are writing on behalf of the [REDACTED] in support of the planning application reference 20250395, which seeks consent for the conversion of a garage to form an annexe ancillary to the main dwelling at Nurstead Lodge, Nurstead Church Lane, Meopham, Gravesend, Kent DA13 9AD. [REDACTED] as a leading authority in annexe planning across the UK, strongly endorses the development of annexes for ancillary residential use. Such developments are crucial in promoting multigenerational living, enhancing sustainability, and alleviating the demand on conventional housing and social care systems. The proposed annexe is designed to function as an ancillary part of the main residence, ensuring that it remains integrated with the primary dwelling and does not operate independently. This relationship is essential and should be preserved through appropriate planning conditions. We believe that the conversion of existing structures, such as garages, into annexes is an efficient use of resources that aligns with sustainable development principles. This approach not only maximises the utility of existing buildings but also supports family cohesion by providing flexible living arrangements. [REDACTED] We appreciate your consideration of this submission and are available to provide further assistance or clarification regarding the planning and regulation of ancillary residential annexes.
