Reasons for comment:
Comments:	The area is a habitat for a variety of species including pipistrelle bats, stag beetles and a range of bird species. Skylarks breed and nest in these fields, swifts and swallows use these fields on their migration from Africa. Woodpeckers and Kestrels can be seen hunting and feeding in these fields as well as 2 species of owl. How can development even be considered when these fields are abundant with protected wildlife. I object to this development and do not understand how it was even considered.

Kind regards
