Reasons for comment:

Comments:	I am a British citizen, born and raised in this country. I wear the hijab and am proud to be both a Muslim and a member of this community. I also work as a primary school teacher here in Gravesend. Since the Al Haqq Mosque planning application became public, I've witnessed an alarming rise in online hatred - not about planning, but about our very presence. Far-right groups and their supporters have used social media to spread Islamophobia and racist misinformation. Some comments have even included violent threats, including suggestions to burn down the proposed mosque. As a woman of faith, and someone who teaches children the values of respect and equality, it is distressing to see such open hostility in our town. This application is about local British Muslims - working families, educators, shopkeepers - asking for the same rights as every other faith group in Gravesend. It is about dignity, safety, and inclusion.
