Reasons for comment:
Comments:	Not only will this bring extra traffic to an already busy road, but the addition of 100 houses circa 300 people on a 3 per house basis will absolutely destroy the already full to capacity public services and local businesses. The original plans do not account correctly the increase in traffic to the A227 and have based their count on only an extra 50 vehicles at peak times. The shops are already at capacity parking and service providing with no physical space for expansion and no where else to add additional facilities. The local schools are at capacity and already cause absolute carnage at drop off and pick up time with parents thinking it's their right to just abandon vehicles where is most convenient for them and also cross the road when they think it's right, but adding more children to the schools is only going to put increased pressure on the already oversized classrooms.

Kind regards
