This area will not cope with another 150 homes atop of all the other applications on GREENBELT LAND! The access is dangerous on the country lane- the area and road will not support at least another 300 cars deliveries/emrgency services will never get through when the area is gridlocked from rat run drivers when the A2 has accidents- which happening alot- the pollution when this happens is shocking, I know as I walk my dog to Camer park every morning and when there is heavy traffic the usually clear air we are fortunate to have here is thick and almost smog like!

The train and bus services are inadequate at the best of times! The paths and pavements are unlit. We like it like that! It's rural it's not supposed to have ugly paths and bright lights and hundreds of houses and the cars and the noise and the extra pressure on services! Where will these people access gp? Already over stretched, hospitals and breaking points! schools? The lovely village Schools my children were fortunate to attend will become massive intakes!

We have more than enough brown fill areas in Gravesham that should be used before ruining this area. This wasn't meant to be a small town.

It's a village- Cobham will not cope with the extra vehicles that all ready drive dangerously through there to Sole street, it's a country road- those that know the road use it wisely - I nearly got run off the road by an HGV drinking through Sole street, the only reason there wasn't a major accident is because I know the road and no one was behind me!, it will not take hundreds more vehicles a day.

When they start the lower Thames crossing the whole area will grind to a halt !

Kind regards
