Reasons for comment:
Comments:	I object to this development due to the significant ecological importance of the land proposed. The fields and surrounding woodland provide a rich and diverse habitat. Pipistrelle bats use the area extensively for feeding, while swifts and swallows depend on the abundance of insects following migration. Protected skylarks are known to nest in these fields, which is particularly important given their national decline. Birds of prey including kestrels, owls and hobbies have also been observed hunting here. In addition, invertebrates such as stag beetles, glow worms and hummingbird hawk moths have been recorded in the area, further demonstrating its biodiversity value. The destruction of such a habitat would be a significant and irreversible loss.

Kind regards
