Reasons for comment:
Comments:	This would give people like my son a proper chance to thrive. Having a place to call their own with their own kitchen and bathroom would be fantastic for people. That's exactly what's needed, especially when some jobs still don't cover the cost of living, even with the minimum wage going up. Lots of people who are often overlooked could stand a chance with the wide range of homes being planned. That stood out to me. There's a real need for a proper mix of sizes, from one-bedroom places for individuals to larger homes for families. That variety will help.

Kind regards
