Reasons for comment:

Comments:	Beyond worship, mosques serve as nurturing grounds for knowledge and enlightenment. They are spaces where seekers of knowledge come to expand their understanding of Islam, fostering personal growth and intellectual development. Mosques continue to uphold their role as educational centres. They offer a diverse range of classes and programs catering to children, teenagers and adults. The classes and programs offered within the mosques are not confined to theoretical knowledge alone; they empower individuals to integrate within the communities nurturing a well-rounded understanding that extends beyond the mosque's walls. They extend their role beyond spiritual dimensions, serving as vibrant social hubs, host array of community activities, from seminars and workshops to cultural events which foster interaction, networking and a sense of belonging amongst people. In line with Islamic teachings, mosques stand as facilitators of charitable endeavours. They become conduits for distributing Zakat, Salaqah and other forms of charity to those in need. This assistance extends to financial aid, food distribution and supporting marginalised members of society. Mosques are powerful agents of unity, regardless of backgrounds, cultures or social statuses. It is a sanctuary where it transcends racial, ethnic and social barriers and is a place where people converge within the mosques embrace, fostering a profound sense of unity, devotion and shared purpose in a community. I believe Gravesend as a whole would benefit from this project.
