Reasons for comment:

Comments: I am retired and I moved to Harvel two and a half years ago. I was looking forward to meeting the local residents in the pub when it reopened post Covid. Unfortunately the pub has never reopened. I do understand that the owners stand to make a huge profit if it is sold as residential as opposed to a business premises however they bought it as a pub. I feel that a pub is the hub of a village and a place for the local community to get together. Living in a rural village can be quite isolating particularly when you are a newcomer to the area.

Kind regards
