| Comments:            | I'm objecting any of that development on green belt land. 100 houses will have so many cars because train station is so far, shops are even further. It will bring so much pollution for environment, so much noise for nature. I can't believe that council even considering that size development - but me and my neighbours can't get planning permission to build little extension on our houses. Absolutely no. |

Kind regards
