Reasons for comment:
Comments:	Not sure which idiot has even allowed this application to get this far but it's completely unfeasible to expect a village designed for a certain number of people which is already at breaking point to have a further 725 homes and associated properties. If we assume there is 1.5 cars per houses hold that is a further 1000approx vehicles at least . The infrastructure, the environment, the services, the surroundings, the social welfare if the existing village residents, the future opportunities for young children to live in an environment resembling a village and not a town would stolen from them by people who have no affiliation or qualifications to make this decision. You would be devaluing an entire village for the sake of this development, how short sighted can you be to even consider this proposal.

Kind regards
