Reasons for comment:

Comments:	I would like to object to the planning application in question. This is already an extremely crowded area, what with the schools, shops and all the additional flats that have been converted above the parade of shops, and the council have previously added yellow line road markings on the roadside of the parade, due to vehicle build up. This has led to cars being parked up on the grass verge opposite, round by the schools and down an already crowded longfield road. The A227 has had temporary works carried out on several occasions this year alone (which will undoubtedly increase due to further load) and this causes chaos around the schools and access to the A2. With the lower Thames crossing coming in, the village is going to see a major increase in through traffic as it is, and it simply won't cope with even further burden of this type of development. There are regular power outages in the village and this will only get worse with the added demand. This would be disastrous for the area
