WHAT A YEAR! PROPERTY REPORT REFLECTS CHANGES

The impact of Brexit and the pandemic is observed in the annual Kent Property Market Report, chronicling a year of very mixed fortunes.

The 29th report, compiled by Caxtons chartered surveyors in association with the county council and local estate agents, reveals that more than 500,000 sq metre of new industrial and distribution space is either under construction or has been granted planning permission across the county, with one 77,000 sq metre project for Panatton, the privately-owned industrial developer, on its way. This, says the report, is a welcome boost to the economy, the property sector and, it is hoped, will produce jobs.

Lockdown Two meant the report had to be launched at a virtual ceremony, with invited guests, including property professionals, investors and sector specialists, joining online.

Caxtons' Sue Foxley, pictured, explained that, with the end of the Brexit transition period in sight, statistics show how developers, speculators and businesses have all been preparing for a new way of operating. Kent is likely to benefit from being just 20 miles from Europe.

The pandemic added to the chaos and caused global disruption to trade routes and worldwide economies alike and the double whammy of Brexit and the coronavirus future supply chain security had been at the forefront of increased activity, bringing welcome investment in the county and sector.

Industrial/distribution space has always been at a premium in Kent, but more so in the past year. This has driven rental growth up by 14% in the space of 12 months.

Director and head of commercial agency at Caxtons, Mark Coxon, pictured, said: "We are encouraged by the level of activity across the industrial and distribution sector, especially in relation to what is coming on stream. The pandemic and lockdown has brought about a 180-degree change in consumption habits, which together with Brexit, has resulted in a greater demand and a rush to secure premises."

A Kent housebuilder has been shortlisted for a national award, for the design and quality of new homes on a former farm near the Thames. Esquire Developments' Manor Farm development at Cliffe was shortlisted in the refurbishment category of the Housebuilder 2020 awards, but heard on 3 December that it was not a winner.

MD Paul Henry said: "Given the quality of the new homes being delivered across the county by our peers, it is a privilege to be shortlisted for such a prestige national award. Being recognised nationally for the hard work of the team is an important part of our ability to compete against much larger housebuilders. It is testament to the quality and design of our new homes, which continue to meet the needs and aspirations of local residents."

Esquire Developments redeveloped the run-down former farm and has transformed it into a small community of 10 new homes, sitting sensitively next to a 16th century Grade II listed farmhouse. A large barn dating from 1850 was extensively refurbished and converted, to create two four-bed homes, a more modern barn was moved and rebuilt to create four three-bed homes and two smaller agricultural storage units were converted to four two-bed single storey homes. The scheme was completed in March.

The project, designed by award-winning Canterbury architects Clague's, incorporated agricultural features, including exposed timbers, original ironwork and items of architectural merit, to reflect the architecture and history of the site.
