Reasons for comment:

Comments:	Please don't let him do this please make him take down the containers his already put there he shouldn't be able to put them up especially before the planning he put the containers there months ago and it's illegal what his don't it's not on his land it's on sheared land what everyone uses and have been using for over 14years me and another people who own a garage manage the area by keeping it clean since [REDACTED] put them containers there we have people going round the back of the containers and it's a place for them to hide to not be seen it's become more dangerous someone who owns a garage his car windows go smashed people saying it was [REDACTED] wanted to put his containers there I'm not sure on that situation but he shouldn't able to come and just take over the land what was classed as sheared land when we all brought the garages his not blocking his own garage his blocking other peoples a lot of people have spoke to him to move the containers his put the containers there and not come back it's not allowed and should be moved asap it's not fair on us who brought the land years ago and everything has been fine u til a guy who don't live around here comes and places two big shipping containers in from of our garages meaning we have to take our cars out before he put them there He said no one can stop him putting it there he shouldn't of had that power in his head he should have went threw planning permission before he thought about sticking these big shipping containers in front off our garage He places the shipping containers there over 7months ago on his own accord nothing to do this planing he should have to take the containers away it don't look nice and defo don't help any of us garage owners apart from him he shouldn't be allowed to do this please get it removed it's not right and he shouldn't be able to put containers anywhere he wants his only recently brought the garage and now he thinks he can put two containers there and make 2more garages that's not fair or right his 2containers are taking up a lot of our sheared land can't get my car in my garage because his containers are blocking it and I'm not the only person we are having to result to putting cars on the road because his blocking our garages The containers are not even infront of his own garage
