Reasons for comment:

Comments: I am strongly opposed to all planning applications in Meopham. This is greenbelt land which hasn't been released from the greenbelt boundary. This is agricultural land which should only be used for food production, shouldn't we be responsible for growing our own rather than relying on imports. Once concreted over it can never be returned. It will result in a large number of additional cars using the A227 which is already very busy. Where will extra school spaces and teachers come from, how far will children have to travel to go to school. Commuters already have to stand on trains in to London. Additional strain on GP which are already overstretched, plus water and electricity supplies, the latter of which is already prone to disruption Meopham is an attractive area to live in simply because it is rural, it would not be as attractive once turned in to a town. The parade of shops is an accident black spot with very limited parking. I doubt this will solve any housing shortage as the only people who will be able to afford to live here probably already have a house but just want to move away from London. This is just to make greedy property developers ricjer, which they seem to be doing all over kent, competing against each other. When will it ever stop!

Kind regards
