Reasons for comment:

Comments:	This land has an injunction on it to stop this from happening so shouldn't even be considered. There have been people living illegally, cutting trees, installing fences and gates for over 3 years. They have caused considerable damage to our beautiful country lane, upsetting everyone that lives here. They have no respect for people or nature. They have destroyed old oaks which are supposed to be protected, destroyed homes for birds and other wild life, and the infrastructure that supports other existing trees. They have piles of rubbish building up on the site which is hurtful to nature and a hazard. They have also been seen burning it. They drive too fast on the lanes never moving over or slowing down when passing people and cars. Is this the sort of people that should be given a privilege to live on this land? Everything they have done so far has only proven not. The most important point is that no one has the right to live there, there is an injunction.
