Reasons for comment:

Comments:	Apparently mobile homes have already been put on this land without permission and woodland destroyed in the area, demonstrating what little respect the applicant has for the countryside and other people. Information has come to light regarding a high court injunction in 2009, preventing any residential use of this land. Recently there was a similar situation in Harvel Lane , Vigo where woodland was destroyed and the man in question taken to court, imprisoned and eventually the site was cleared of all the buildings and rubbish he had left there, no doubt at tax payers expense. The last thing anyone wants is to see this happen again but since the applicant has already apparently brought mobile homes on to the land, this situation could get out of hand quite quickly. If the land can't be built on then the same should apply to mobile homes. If this application is accepted, then a precedent will be set and people can do what they like on green belt land.
