Thank you for consulting us on this application.

The site lies within an area of multi-period archaeological potential. An archaeological evaluation of a wider area which included this present development site, was undertaken by Archaeology South-East in 2006 and recorded four undated features and a possible Palaeolithic flint flake, at the former Southfields School, Singlewell. The evaluation consisted of 24 trial trenches excavated in October 2006 and the four features were undiagnostic scrapes and shallow linear ditches. Additional trenching did not observe any further archaeology.

Therefore, based on existing Historic Environment Record data for the area and the past development of the site, I consider it unlikely that these proposals would have a significant below-ground archaeological impact and have no further comments to make in this case.
