Reasons for comment:

Comments: I understand the need for off road parking in some areas. However, having compared the photograph of the completed hardstanding with what was a front garden previously the hardstanding whilst functional looks stark and dare I say it hideous. It does nothing to enhance the look of the property quite the opposite in fact. All of the natural planting and biodiversity has been ripped up with, it seems, no provision to replace the plants to soften the harshness of the hardstanding. Biodiversity not only softens the look it also acts to aid drainage of rainwater.

Kind regards
