Reasons for comment:
Comments:	2 points One: being able to only access complaint facilities in this way excludes a very high proportion of older residents you should have posted details to retired residents who will NOT necessarily have Internet skills to respond in any other way. Two: the map and "details" provided in no way explain the extent of the development to ensure locals can make a decision on whether to look further into the proposal. The map does not show the size of development or roads change adequately to enable some one to decide whether to explore the proposal further. Also - why no access to proposal through a local meeting at the community centre? For those with little online skill no information has been "effectively" provided. All in all a very unsatisfactory provision of information. Book 2 meetings to explain the proposal to residents at the community centre, one mid week and one at the weekend so that retired an also working residents can have access to and responses provided face to face. Anything less is unsatisfactory. Thankyou.

Kind regards
