Reasons for comment:

Comments: Here we go again!!! Not only have we had to try over and over again to object to the property opposite us being demolished and made into 2 houses and our concerns being ignored but now we have it happening behind us now too!! 1 there are bats residing in the trees on said property 2 there are slow worms that frequently show themselves on the back boundary of my property which would be directly impacted by the building of these properties. 3 there would be substantial disruption to our culdesac. We would have zero privacy left our properties along the boundary line in the turnstones would be significantly overlooked by these properties and then subsequently by the residents of those properties due to the fact that our properties are lower down than theirs. I think it's disgusting that we're having to fight another building proposal and people need to stop being so greedy and building on every piece of green possible to become an ugly concrete jungle!

Kind regards
