Reasons for comment:

Comments:	I object for the following reasons: <ul style="list-style-type: none">- This is agricultural land for as long as I have lived here and more. I believe the benefit gained from the food production on this land is important and we should look to build on other non-fertile land. Brownfield for instance. This is greenbelt land surely and should be preserved.- This road is a busy road and people speed along it into the 30mph zone. The road has numerous cars parked towards the school and any access could be dangerous.- The Helen Allison school is a school which caters for children with special education needs. They are used to being next to quiet farmland and a development on this scale will have a detrimental effect to their wellbeing.- Longfield road connects to the A227 which is a very busy road and with the lower Thames crossing is set to increase in traffic. The congestion around the schools and on this road is already very heavy and more houses with multiple cars will make a dangerous road even more dangerous.
