Reasons for comment:
Comments:	Can't believe the proposed plan is even being considered, to add yet more houses to already busy roads is so stupid. The A227 when there is either road works or incidents becomes a total nightmare as there are no alternate routes, apart from narrow lanes which become gridlocked. Most households have at least two cars, so where are these cars to be parked? The Longfield Road is a total nightmare in school drop off times as they clog up the route to Hartley - and you want to make this worse with added houses. Not to mention GPs. school places will be at a premium. more greenbelt land will be lost. I strongly object to this madness.

Kind regards
