Reasons for comment:
Comments:	I object to the development of yet another piece of good agricultural land which is currently producing food crops. We should be encouraging and supporting farmers in providing food for the population, not destroying it. This particular site is also in a very congested part of the village and impacts on the local shops and safety of the children attending the schools. While I appreciate the need for housing, the use of good farm land is unacceptable and an easy option, as far as I can see, for developers to make money. The land is flat without obstacles and therefore cheaper to develop. But at what cost to community, the environment and food production. The increasing population is evident, but these people also need to be fed.

Kind regards
