Reasons for comment:

Comments:	As previously mentioned in the other applications, I object strongly to this "agricultural dwelling" being built. It is building will be on beautiful farming land in North Kent, which is being slowly eroded. It has nothing to do with social housing. It is a very large dwelling being built by a vast multi million farming business, which can easily find accommodation in the area without having to devastate more green belt land. Two previous applications have been rejected, and once on appeal. Is this a case of keep going until you get what you want? It should also be noted that the public planning notice has only just been seen hanging on the fence this week. Hence the late objection to this application.
