Reasons for comment:
Comments:	norwood lane junction with green lane is bad enough to come out of now,what will it be like with 150 houses and all those vehicles. the other end of norwood lane with wrotham road will be even worse especially if you think you are going to build all those other houses planned. norwood lane is not fit for more traffic. station road has enough foot traffic as it is.we do not need any more. there will be unbelievable pressure put on all the schools,doctors surgery and train stations.let alone the increase traffic on station approach speeding. meopham has and always be a rural village and not a town.

Kind regards
