| Comments: | The arrogant wilful destruction of ancient trees and land and complete disregard for the law and planning rules that exist is why the planning must not be granted in any form. I'm sure lots of us would want to live in such an area and just set up home but there are reasons and laws as to why we cannot. The roads are not capable of serving the traffic for one. There are no services so land is being contaminated as well as destroyed. All residents nearby and those who use the area for walking and nature should be able to continue as they have for many years unhindered by unlawful parties and their roaming animals and in safety. The same with emergency service vehicles who must have priority. The road has already been blocked when illegally entering by these vehicles delivering these buildings and caused dangerous and unnecessary damage. The sites needed must be planned and settled by the local authorities who will have followed all lawful guidance and requirements and it must be their choice of location as are all council and social housing in order that society and communities within follow the laws for the benefit of all not the few. To allow this site new or any retrospective planning permission is to pave the way across the whole county or indeed country to have complete disregard. This area is under immense pressure already. |
