Reasons for comment:

Comments:	Until recently I lived in Meopham. But I go back to enjoy the rural walks. I am objecting to this proposal for the following reasons: There would be a negative impact on the local animal species. I know there are many rare species in this habitat. Once they are gone, they are gone forever, as with the beautiful green spaces that local residents and others enjoy. There would be a significant impact on the amount of cars that would be travelling through the villages on the A227. This road is already overloaded with cars, vans and lorries. Has this been thought through? The road cannot be made wider. We have what we have and I don't think it can take any more congestion, that's without there being a problem on either the A2 or M20, in which case it is a nightmare for people living along this road. There would also be an impact on the use of Meopham railway station. There is no safe and reasonable way of walking to the station. This would also add to the cars on the road. Residents move to these areas to enjoy a semi rural existence. This development and others would take away the whole essence of the area, leaving it just like all the other concrete housing estates. Thank you.
