Reasons for comment:

Comments:	I regularly visit my two nephews, who live on this road. We are very close, particularly so since their mother passed last year. The parking situation for visiting is already difficult, particularly as my husband their uncle, is partially disabled as a result of a stroke last year. One of my nephews owns a home on the road, so is committed to living there. I fear I will not be able to visit them due to lack of roadside parking close to their house for my partner if this goes ahead, and the additional parking requirements that the staffing for this property would require.
