Reasons for comment:

Comments:	I strongly object to the above plans as I strongly believe that greenbelt/farmland wild spaces should not be down graded to suit profit and greed. You need houses then use all the brown sites 1st. The A227 is at capacity and often gridlocked and will only get worse with the new tunnel being built with the A227 being a cut through and that's without new houses. Services will not cope and there will be higher risk of flooding. We have to consider our future with climate change we need our farms and farm fields for food security. The Countryside, Greenbelt Wildspaces, Nature are crucial to help combate climate change air quality flooding and people's wellbeing unfortunately house don't. We must protect these precious spaces and stop urban sprawl. Laws & rules like the Greenbelt aren't made so that when it suits change it. It's there to protect our precious land we are so lucky to have. Maybe Labour and the council can explain how these sites comes under "exceptional circumstances " so I strongly object to all building on Greenbelt Green spaces & farmland. Use Brown sites.
