Comments: The junction at the parade of shops from the A227 to Longfield is very busy and dangerous at the best of times. There is now parking for the parade of shops on the Longfield Road just past the Helen Alison school, this road is so narrow there and busy with pedestrians and children even outside school times. Having more traffic using this road will be horrendous for us residents to have to use both the A227 and the Longfield Road daily. The road from Green Lane to Longfield Road is used as a rat run on the mornings and reverse in the evenings to avoid congestion on the A2. Building more houses will mean more traffic using this already busy junction. How are the schools and doctors going to cope with more residents even parking as far away as Meopham station is going to be hard to find a space

Kind regards
