Reasons for comment:

Comments:	My first concern with this proposal is the road infrastructure. I use the A227 multiple times every single day and this Road cannot stand up to any additional daily traffic. At rush hour it is virtually impossible to turn right out of any side junction to join the A227, I have seen so many near misses where people takes risks in order to do so. If there are temporary traffic light, which is extremely common, you can expect to sit waiting at these for up to an hour each way. This then impacts the country lanes which then result in them being gridlocked. It causes complete misery for every driver just wishing to return home from work, school, visiting parents, shopping and every other activity. You can pop out for a Pilates class or meet a friend for coffee and unexpectedly sit for hours in traffic jams. If the road is completely shut. Shutting the end of Norwood Lane is completely in acceptable, the people who live in the house off Norwood lane would be completely trapped if anything were to close the other end of the road. The schools, doctors and dentists are all already full in the area, with Meopham surgery issuing a letter to state that they are to capacity. These loss of the green space would be devastating to the area, the impact on nature and wild animals would be irreversible meaning their habitat would be destroyed. This cannot be allowed to happen.
