Reasons for comment:

Comments:	Objections to building on greenbelt land, Agricultural land which just makes the developers more money at the expense of the local area and country side. Once its gone its gone for ever. This application, plus the other two planning applications would increase the village by 620 properties which would increase the population (last census 7000+) by over 20% assuming 2.5 persons per property properly alot more than this.. This is a devastating project for this area. The access to the site would be along country lanes which would be unsafe. The look and feel of the countryside going and coming to Cobham would be altered forever. The local roads including A227 are already very busy and are predicted to get worst once the Thames Crossing is built.
