Reasons for comment:

Comments:	I say object but I feel bad even saying that because I wouldn't want to stop somebody building the house of their dreams. But I say this simply from my own point of view and the reasons I bought this house in the first place and it's not personal. I bought this house because it had nobody overlooking the house or the garden. The only house that can overlook the house is number [REDACTED] but there is a tree which blocks the view between both houses and also the majority of my garden. This however would not be the case if a house was built directly behind me. It would be able to view straight into my living room, main bedroom and en suite. The house doesn't even have frosted glass on the en suite bathroom windows because I assume when it was built in 2006 they felt it unnecessary due to nobody being able to look in. The plans are not totally clear on the distance it would be from the fence between us either. There are 2 conflicting locations on the documents.
