Reasons for comment:

Comments:	A 'new build' estate of 100 houses cannot possibly integrate well aesthetically in 'green belt' surroundings. There is already traffic congestion every day along Wrotham Road with school drop off cars struggling to park at both Culverstone and Meopham schools. Another 216 cars (as the plan suggests) would cause havoc on the road at high traffic commuting times. This site is no where near a train station and rural bus services are few and far between, meaning that anyone living there has no choice but to drive. Which means that there are more emissions in the area, detrimental to the local wildlife. Why are these homes 'much needed'? According to the stats, people are having less children, so why are we needing more and more homes to be built.
